"Wellington is a very windy place"

Many other countries have suffered a great deal more at the hands of hurricanes, tornadoes and severe winds.

Fire, when it burns out of control, can destroy homes and belongings, and can injure and kill. Forest or bush fires can cause widespread damage. Yet these powerful elements can be benevolent forces too. A breeze can soothe on a hot day, a gentle wind can aid an athlete, while more powerful gusts can even generate electricity.

Here in New Zealand we certainly appreciate the value of a day when there's good drying out. And fire is a great source of heat and comfort.

Why does the Holy Spirit manifest as these elements? Wind and fire are signs of both the power of God and of the Strength for the task ahead. I like to think of the Holy Spirit as both the wind at our back, and the fire within us – the love within, and the impetus to love others. Is your heart on fire with the love of God? What is the force that spurs you on?

Father Sanele

From the Archdiocesan Justice Peace and Development Commission. Jesus promised us the Holy Spirit to be our companion on our spiritual journey. Pope Francis reminds us: "We are not an NGO. We are the Church, the Bride of the Lord. If we do not profess Jesus Christ, things go wrong." The Holy Father implied that it is only by walking in and with the Holy Spirit that we build a Church for the poor. Is the Holy Spirit my guide in the moral challenges of our time? Ngā mihi nui
